President's Letter

Greetings:

As we come together to lay down plans for another year of advocacy and activism for Texans with disabilities, let us pay homage to those who led the Coalition of Texans with Disabilities through its first 14 years. The task confronting them was awesome, yet they went ahead and accomplished much. Progress may have been slow, yet today one has only to mention CTD's name to receive a respectful hearing.

While in charming and lovely San Antonio, enjoy yourselves. Our board members, Chris Mlynek and Jerome Wright, and their committee have made excellent plans for us to enjoy ourselves while we work.

This is your Coalition: seize this opportunity to learn, to network, and of course, have fun. Keep in mind how many things you can do to shape the future for people with disabilities and take what you learn back to your community and share it.

Best wishes to all of you,

John R. Murray
President

PROCLAMATION

Coalition of Texans with Disabilities Day

The Coalition of Texans with Disabilities is a major force in disability rights advocacy for disabled Texans. It is one of the oldest and strongest independent cross-disability coalitions in the United States, and the only consumer-controlled advocacy coalition in Texas.

The Coalition emerged in 1978 when leaders from across the State met here in San Antonio to convene the first annual delegates convention to discuss strategies to secure their basic rights and fight the discrimination they experienced. Since its inception, CTD has worked to develop leadership in persons with disabilities so they can be involved in changing public policy and securing the basic civil rights of equal opportunity and independence.

CTD has returned to San Antonio for its 14th Annual Delegates Assembly, entitled "Doing It Together! Disability Issues in the New Texas." Since the first Delegates Assembly in San Antonio fourteen years ago, the Coalition of Texans with Disabilities has made significant strides in securing equal opportunity for Texans with disabilities. The City of San Antonio pauses to recognize their progress, applaud their accomplishments, and take note of the challenges still facing persons with disabilities.

Therefore, I, Nelson Wolfe, Mayor of San Antonio, do hereby proclaim the day of November 23, 1991, as

CTD Past & Future

Last year's 13th annual convention was a time of celebration for the CTD membership. Through the united efforts of CTD and disability groups from across the nation, what was once thought of as only a mere possibility became reality with the passage of the Americans with Disabilities Act. It was a time to reflect on our past accomplishments and savor our victory.

With the passage of ADA, a new era of intensive work has begun. We are faced with the challenge of getting accurate information on ADA out to people, and ensuring there is compliance with the law. Without compliance, we have gained nothing.

With this in mind, we convene our 14th annual gathering with the theme "ADA - Doing It Together." The convention focuses on ADA, but emphasizes "doing it together" to see that the full intent of ADA is realized for all Texans with disabilities.

CTD looks to a bright but challenging future. The face of the disability movement has changed drastically with the passage of ADA. To meet the challenges ahead, we have expanded staff to include two community organizers, working in El Paso and San Antonio. They will lay the foundation of the Texas Disability Rights Network Project.

Our plans for 1992 include placing organizers in additional cities. This project focuses on grassroots organizing at a local level, empowering persons with disabilities to win and maintain systematic change. We have specific funding to increase knowledge of the ADA at the local level among people with disabilities. Armed with this knowledge, people with disabilities can be formidable united advocates.

Another exciting expansion for CTD next year will be the staffing of our Attendant Services Task

Force, which has been an all volunteer effort since 1984. Our first year goals include a state-wide conference on attendant service issues, a study on recruitment, retention and training of personal care attendants, policy development and involvement of attendant service users and providers in three communities outside of Austin.

Each of these past fourteen years have added to CTD's proven track record of achieving change. We have built our recognition through our uniqueness. CTD is the largest and strongest cross-disability coalition in the United States. Our united, cross-disability efforts are more important than ever. As individuals, we must act. As organizations, we must act. Armed with ADA we must not relent.
