

Dycus Stuff

Dycus has a giant talent, intellect and spirit.

By helping people identify their strengths and weaknesses, he has developed the talents of student journalists who have earned more than 3,500 state and national awards. They are scattered across the continent--still practicing what they learned from the master editor and writing coach.

He slashes copy without mercy casting aside sloppy grammar, convoluted rhetoric and factual errors.

His personal courage and irreverant wit make any encounter with him a joyful and productive event.

In addition to professional guidance and mentoring, he has provided hours of personal counseling to students, faculty and administrators. He has rescued careers, restored friendships and resolved marital conflicts. "The reason I'm such an authority on marriage," he says, "is because I've never had a wife." On many occasions, Dycus is the bridge over troubled waters.

He has cast a magnificent shadow on the UTA campus, the Arlington community, and on all our hearts. No one could have a better editor, and no one needs a better friend.
