

Ferris, Texas
Sept. 7, 1937.

Dr. Geo. P. Powell:
Ferris,
Texas.

Dear Dr. Powell: Since I received your answer to my letter two weeks ago, my husband's other hand got so he couldn't use it, if there is a possible chance for you to put me to work, I sincerely urge you to do so. I need work now worse than I ever did. Cotton picking is about over, and is raining so we can't make any thing. It seems my ~~ax~~ to me, when I think of so many men and their wives that are both working there, and it is so hard for me to find something to do that I can feed my family of six on.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Joe A. Coffman
Ferris, Texas.

September 8, 1937

Mrs. Joe A. Coffman
Ferris
Texas

Dear Madam:

Regret to learn that your husband has lost the use of both hands and hope you will be able to secure some kind of employment to assist with the upkeep of the home.

Dr. William Thomas, of Rusk State Hospital, will succeed me here and am only filling the place temporarily at this time, I will however file your letter for his attention when he does come and perhaps he can give some of the many applicants employment later on.

Yours truly

Superintendent
Geo. F. Powell, M.D.

dip